EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Governor.

HIS EXCELLENCY OLIVER AMES OF EASTON,

Enters for the second term on the high office of Chief Magistrate of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He held the office of Lieutenant-Governor three terms. He is a native of the town where his residence is, and was born Feb. 21, 1831. His education was received in the public schools, the Leicester Academy, and Brown University. He was trained as a practical mechanic in the factory of his father, the late Hon. Oakes Ames, to whose large manufacturing and railroad interests he and his brothers succeeded. In these concerns he is still interested. Prior to the War of the Rebellion, he was an officer in the State militia. He was on the School Committee in Easton a number of years, and was the ablest and most active member of the State Senate in 1880 and 1881. He represents the outcome of Massachusetts' skill, industry and enterprise. His family for three generations have conserved the largest business and railroad interests with a sagacity, foresight and prudence that have given them a national fame. The country throbs from shore to shore with the grand results of their marvellous energy, and the implements of their industry stir the soil of every clime, and lighten the hands of toil in every land under the sun. Nor is this unostentatious industry and ability less characteristic of the four sons and cousins who manage the "millions" committed to their trust and have developed the same with such signal energy, efficiency, and ever-increasing prosperity.

Lieutenant-Governor.

HIS HONOR JOHN Q. A. BRACKETT OF ARLINGTON,

Was born in Bradford, N. H., June 8, 1842, attending the public schools until seventeen, when he entered the Colby Academy at New London, graduating in 1861. Declining a congressional district appointment at West Point, he entered Harvard College, where he maintained a high position, being elected class orator and graduating with honor in 1865, studied law at the Harvard Law School, receiving the degree of LL. B. in 1868, and having been admitted to the Suffolk Bar, has successfully practiced his profession to the present time. He was prominent in the notable work of the Mercantile Library Association in its palmy days, and president of the organization in 1871-72 and 1882-83. In 1874 he served on the staff of Gen. Isaac L. Burrell, First Brigade M. V. M., as Judge Advocate-General, holding that position until 1876. Ever interested in State and national politics, he has been one of the foremost of political workers on the higher plane of party politics, at the head of the Young Men's Republican organization in 1877, and for the last fifteen years the most efficient of orators in all State and Presidential campaigns. He was a member of the Boston Common Council from 1873 to 1877, and unanimously elected president of that body in 1876. In 1876 was chosen Representative to the Legislature, and re-elected in 1877-78-79-80, serving as House Chairman of Committee on Labor and Taxation, drafting and reporting bills for Co-operative Building Associations, and bills known as Double Taxation on Property. In 1878-79 he was Chairman of Committees on Education, Probate and Chancery, Rules and Orders, and Retrenchment, also a leading candidate for Speaker, receiving next to the highest vote cast. Was also, in 1884, Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary. He was chosen unanimously as Speaker of the House in 1885, and re-elected without a dissenting voice for 1886. In 1886 he was elected Lieutenant-Governor as successor to Gov. Ames, and re-elected this year to the same office, which he has filled with distinguished ability and honor.

He was born in Sandwich, Mass., March 25, 1811, was educated in the public schools, and is a merchant. Engaging in the famous New Bedford whale fishery, he prosecuted it with such foresight and vigor as to realize a handsome fortune, and become the owner of the largest whaling tonnage known to the world, and an important factor in New Bedford enterprise, which secured for it the repute of being the wealthiest city in ratio of population in the Union. With Mr. Bourne were associated in those days, when patriotism and politics were incontrovertible synonyms, Col. Wm. Fessenden, Hon. Geo. Marston, and Hon. Wm. T. Davis, all of the First District, with political opponents worthy of their steel in the persons of those old Democratic war horses, Major S. B. Phinney and Moses Bates, men who neither gave nor asked "quarter." Mr. Bourne was four times delegate to the National Convention, and first "broke" from Seward to Lincoln in 1860. For a whole decade he was State Director in the Boston & Albany Railroad, five years Alderman in his own city, and thrice elected Councillor from the First District, President of the Merchants' National Bank, Bourne Mills, and Bristol County Insurance Company, and exceptionally complimented in the christening the new town set off from old Sandwich, his native town, with his own name of "Bourne." Still vigorous at seventy-five as most men of fifty, he is able to serve the interests of his beloved Cape Cod, the confidence of whose people he holds to an unlimited extent. He has rendered valuable service on the Councillor Committees on Finance, Pardons, Railroads, as Chairman of each, from his long experience and thorough knowledge of matters referred to his consideration.

Tax Commission.

CHARLES ENDICOTT, Tax Commissioner, was born in Canton, Oct. 28, 1822; received the usual aid offered by the common schools of the period, of which he availed himself to the utmost by an assiduity and perseverance, making ample amends for the lack of larger opportunities in academic education. Read law with the late Hon. Ellis Ames of Canton, and admitted to the Bar in 1857. His first official appointment was to the office of Deputy Sheriff, following in most of the offices of trust and executive management in his native town. He was also for many years County Commissioner, and Commissioner of Insolvency for the County of Norfolk. Elected Representative to the Legislatures of 1851, '57, and '58, and to the Senate for the years 1866, '67, following as Executive Councillor for the Second District in 1863, '69. Elected State Treasurer in 1876, he was re-elected continuously five years till the limitation of the statute expired in 1881, when he was reappointed Tax Commissioner and Commissioner of Corporations in 1881, conducting the important and intricate affairs of that department till the present time. This unbroken continuity of public service for forty years, in all their varied departments of official capacity, presents an honorable record, alike creditable to himself and valuable to the State. To his honor be it exceptionally recorded, he has never compromised the genial serenity of the refined, courteous, and urbane gentleman in the usual asperities and dictatorial assumptions of political and public life.

State Aid.

CHARLES W. HASTINGS, Commissioner of State Aid, born Jan. 19, 1831, in Schenectady, N. Y. Came to Boston in 1846. Employed in the printing establishment of S. N. Dickinson. Became a resident of Weymouth in 1851. Was a member of the Legislature from that town in 1861. Received commission as First Lieutenant in the same regiment Apr. 29, 1861. Commissioned Captain, Aug. 10, 1862. Captured by the enemy on the 24th of May, 1864, and was a prisoner of war until Mar. 1, 1865. Was mustered out of service Mar. 12, 1865. In October, 1871, received an appointment as Clerk of the Board of Massachusetts State Police Commissioners. Was appointed to a clerkship in the office of the Secretary of State in 1878, and in 1879, by Gov. Talbot, Commissioner of State Aid. Was a charter member of Reynolds Post 58, G. A. R., Department of Massachusetts, organized in 1868, and was its first Senior Vice-Commander. Commander of the Post in 1871-72, and Post-Adjutant for fifteen consecutive years.

Education.

JOHN WOODBRIDGE DICKINSON, the present Secretary of the State Board of Education, passed his early years in South Williamstown, Mass. Here he obtained the rudiments of a common school education in the public schools of the town. At the age of nine years he was taken from the school for work on the farm during the summer time, attending school during the winter months only. Having an overmastering desire for a liberal education, he entered Greylock Institute, a celebrated private preparatory school in South Williamstown, conducted by the brothers Benjamin F. and Josiah A. Mills. The last two years of his preparatory course were spent at Williston Seminary in East Hampton, under principal Luther Wright, well known as one of the most celebrated classical teachers of his time. On graduating from Williston Seminary, Mr. Dickinson entered the Freshman class at Williams College in the autumn of 1848, graduating in 1852 with the classical honors of the class. In September of that year he received the appointment of assistant teacher in the Normal School at Westfield, Mass., under the principal, Mr. David S. Rowe. On the resignation of the principal, Mr. William H. Wells, he was appointed principal of the school. For twenty years he performed the duties of the office with great success, which gave to the Normal School a national reputation, and to the public schools of the State a large number of teachers well trained in the philosophy of teaching. Mr. Dickinson early became a most diligent student of a pedagogical science, and was among the first to introduce those reforms in teaching which have since been working their way slowly into the best schools of the country. The Westfield Normal School was the first to reduce the teaching of all subjects as well as objects to the oral objective method, requiring the learner to use his own active power in working out, under the simple direction of the teacher, his own problems for himself. In 1877, on the resignation of the Hon. Joseph White, Mr. Dickinson was called from the Normal School at Westfield to the office of Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Education. His study and experience in the Normal School had fitted him to perform the duties of his new position. During his term of service as Secretary, the cause of popular instruction has made great progress in the old Commonwealth. The State Normal Art School, after having passed through a long struggle for simple existence, has at last found rest in a public appreciation of its solid merits.

Within the last few years, by means of teachers' institutes, teachers' conventions, public lectures, and the Annual Reports of the Board of Education, normal schools, and the good work of the agents of the Board, the school spirit of the State has been made more intense and more intelligent. Mr. Dickinson, now in the prime of life, is in earnest to make Massachusetts still the leader in all that is excellent in the methods of popular instruction.

Librarian.

C. B. TILLINGHAST, in charge of State Library, was born in West Greenwich, R. I., April 3, 1843, and was educated in the public schools and public libraries of Windham County, Conn., where he was for several years a teacher and school officer. Became connected with the editorial department of the Boston Daily Journal in 1870, and was city editor for several years. Resigning this position, he accepted the charge of the State Library of Massachusetts, June 1, 1879. Under his supervision, the valuable State Library, in its quiet, attractive, and orderly halls, has been brought to a high condition in selection, arrangement, and wide-reaching usefulness. In its specialties of law, history, and official records it affords invaluable aid to a large number of young students that constantly surround its ample tables and gather in its well-lighted alcoves.

Board of Health.

STEPHEN CLARENCE WRIGHTINGTON, born Feb. 15, 1823, in Troy, Mass., before and later known as Fall River; member of the Common Council of that city in the years 1855, 1856, and 1857, the two latter years as President of that body, resigning in 1857 to assume the office of Assessor, serving in that capacity during the succeeding two years. Member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1859, '60, and '61. In 1860 was in the employ of the Alien Commission, where he continued until its abolition in 1863, and further in the employ of its successor, the Board of State Charities, until 1868, when he was appointed General Agent of that Board by Gov. Bullock, remaining in that position by successive appointments until the abolition of the board in 1879. He then received the appointment of Superintendent of In-Door Poor, which he has held for six years under the present Board of Health, Lunacy and Charity. A quarter of a century in executive management of various departments of State charities, with a previous large experience in control of city and State affairs, has given him an enviable position as one of the ablest, most efficient, and popular officials in departmental business.

Prisons.

EUSTACE C. FITZ, Republican, was born at Haverhill, Mass., Feb. 5, 1833, and educated at public schools of Chelsea. Engaged in mercantile business. Was President of Chelsea Common Council, 1862-63, and Mayor 1864-66. Member of Massachusetts House of Representatives, 1873-74, and of Massachusetts Senate, 1875-76, also member of Massachusetts Executive Council, 1881-82. Gov. Ames appointed him Chairman of Commissioners of Prisons, Aug., 1887, which position he now holds.

WARREN F. SPALDING, Secretary and executive officer of the Commissioners of Prisons, was born in Hillsborough, N. H., Jan. 14, 1841. He received a common school education in Nashua, N. H., where he lived from 1845 to 1870. He was engaged in the furniture business there for several years. He enlisted as a private in Company F, First Regiment N. H. Heavy Artillery, in the last year of the War of the Rebellion, and served nearly a year, and until the end of the war, being detached from his regiment during the latter part of the time, and assigned to clerical service at the War Department. He came to Boston in 1870, and was engaged in journalism, as reporter and editor, for nearly nine years, upon the Daily News, Daily Globe and Commercial Bulletin. He was elected Secretary of the old Board of Commissioners of Prisons, in April, 1879, and became the Secretary of the new Board when it was reorganized in May of that year.

Provincial Records.

ABNER CHENEY GOODELL, JR., of Salem; born at Cambridgeport, Oct. 1, 1831; studied law with his uncle, Hon. George Haskell of Ipswich, and with Northend and Choate, of Salem. He was admitted to the Bar at the November term of the Supreme Judicial Court, 1852, and immediately began practice at Lynn. In 1856 he was appointed first Register of the newly established Court of Insolvency for Essex County, to which he was also elected the next autumn; and, upon the consolidation of the Courts of Probate and Insolvency, in 1858, he was elected Register of the two Courts to serve from January, 1859. This office he held for twenty years by successive elections. He relinquished his general law practice upon his election as Register of Probate and Insolvency. In 1856 he was appointed, by Gov. Andrew, one of the commissioners on the publication of the laws of the old Province of Massachusetts Bay. His senior associates were Ex-Gov. John H. Clifford, and Ellis Ames, of Canton, both since deceased. In 1867 he was directed, by Gov. Bullock, to proceed with the editing and printing of the Province Laws, in conjunction with Mr. Ames, one of his associates under the former commission. The labor of this edition, which has reached the last volume of the Public Acts, making in all five volumes, and containing about six thousand pages, has devolved wholly upon Mr. Goodell. Throughout the war he served as chairman of the citizens' recruiting committee of Salem, and as secretary of the citizens' committee for the relief of soldiers and their families. In 1865 he received the honorary degree of A. M. from Amherst College. He has been for many years Vice President of the Essex Institute, and has been Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Peabody Academy of Science from the foundation of that institution. He is a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, a life member of the New England Historic, Genealogical Society, and a corresponding member of the Historical Societies of New York, New Hampshire and Rhode Island. He was formerly editor of the Historical Collections of the Essex Institute, and also one of the editors of the Heraldic Journal. For nineteen years he was president of the Salem Street Railway, now the Naumkeag Street Railway Company. In 1865 he was elected Alderman of the city of Salem, and was appointed chairman of the Joint Committee on the Water Works, in which capacity he drew the ordinance establishing the Board of Water Commissioners. He declined a renomination. Of late he has withdrawn from all other pursuits, to devote himself exclusively to the editing of the Province Laws.

Agriculture.

HON. WILLIAM R. SESSIONS, Republican, farmer, is a native resident of Hampden; was born Dec. 3, 1835, and was a pupil in the Westfield Academy. He was a Sergeant in the Forty-sixth Massachusetts Regiment during the war, has held various town offices, has been a member of the State Board of Agriculture, and was in the House in 1868, serving on the Committee on Agriculture. In the Senate last year he was Chairman of the Committee on Towns, and a member of the Committees on Agriculture and on Taxation. On the resignation of Col. Russell, Mr. Sessions was chosen Secretary of the Board by reason of his long and thorough experience as a successful scientific and practical farmer; his herd of shorthorns, his dairy and premium butter, his model barns, and fine old homestead, overlooking from Hampden Heights the far-famed Connecticut Valley and Berkshire Hills beyond. This, with a score of years of public agricultural official labor at the Hampden Fairs, Harvest Club, Agricultural College, on the State General Agricultural Committee, and on the State Board of Agriculture, presented him as the best equipped candidate, and insured his election to his present important post.

Harbor and Land Commission.

JOHN E. SANFORD, Chairman of the Board, was born in Dennis, Nov. 22, 1830. Graduated at Amherst College in 1851. Studied law and practised at Taunton. He was elected to House in 1863-64, acting as Chairman on Mercantile Affairs, Hoosac Tunnel and Railroads. Also member of the House in 1871-76, and for last four years Speaker of the House, presiding over its deliberations with distinguished ability, and leaving a valuable record in its rulings which have been recognized authority in succeeding years. He was appointed Chairman of the Board of Commission on Harbors and Public Lands by Gov. Robinson, and still holds that position.

JOHN I. BAKER, one of the best known of the older politicians, and noted as Dean of the House of Representatives, was born in Beverly Aug. 16, 1812, and educated in the public schools. Speaker of the House.

HON. CHARLES J. NOYES, who was Speaker of the House last year, and who has been re-elected Speaker this year, represents Ward 14, and is a Republican through and through. He was born in Haverhill, August 7, 1841. He is a lineal descendent of Rev. James Noyes, who settled in Newbury and who erected the "old Noyes house," standing a short distance from the upper green, not far from the old town church in Newbury. He graduated from Haverhill Academy in 1860, the valedictorian and president of his class. In 1864 he graduated from Union College at Schenectady, where he was twice class orator and chairman of its Senior Catalogue Committee. While in college Mr. Noyes engaged in the study of law, and completed his studies in Providence, R. I. He was admitted to the Bar at Cambridge, and began simultaneously the practice of law in Boston and Haverhill in 1864. In the Lincoln campaign of 1864, Mr. Noyes was made the President of the Lincoln Club of Haverhill, and on the assassination of President Lincoln he delivered a memorial address before the city authorities. He was a member of the House in 1866, serving on the Committee on the Judiciary. The next year he was elected to the Senate, and served on the Committees on Education, Library (being Chairman), and on the Joint Special Committee on Amendments to the Constitution. At the close of the session he reopened his office at Boston and devoted himself to his profession. He removed to South Boston in April, 1872, and in 1876 he was nominated, with Mr. Alonzo Bancroft, for the House of 1877, both gentlemen being elected. Mr. Noyes served on the Committee on Mercantile Affairs, Hoosac Tunnel and Troy and Greenfield Railroads. In 1878 he served on the Committees on Harbors and Hoosac Tunnel. He was a member of the House the following year, and was a candidate for the Speakership, but was defeated by Mr. Levi C. Wade. Returning to the House in 1880, Mr. Noyes was elected Speaker, which position he held during the two subsequent years. He was a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, but in the Convention in 1882 he was defeated by Hon. Oliver Ames. He ran for Councillor in 1883, and although the District was strongly Democratic he received a large vote. On the election of Hon. P. A. Collins to Congress he was appointed Special Justice of the Municipal Court of South Boston District, which position he has since held, acting in the summer term in the absence of Judge Burbank. Returning to Boston, he studied law with ex-Gov. Gaston, received the degree of LL. B. from Boston University, and was admitted to the Bar in 1877. As a clinical expert in legal and statute revision, codification, and expression, the ex-President of the Senate, Hon. R. R. Bishop, as Chairman of the Committee having in charge the General Statute Revision of 1880, certifies as follows in his report of 1881: "To incorporate the changes recommended by the Committee was a work requiring peculiar care, fidelity, and aptitude. It has been admirably performed since the adjournment of the Committee, on the 13th of July, by Mr. Edward A. McLaughlin." He was appointed Assistant Clerk of the House of Representatives in 1878, serving with much ability and acceptance until the accession of Mr. Marden to the Speakership, when he was chosen Clerk in the Speaker's place. Mr. McLaughlin is still a young man, of fine presence, a clear, well-intoned voice, with all the refinement of native delicacy, thorough culture, and the instincts of the well-bred gentleman, qualities which have made him the most popular of Clerks, as his unanimous election for the fourth term, by a House not in accord with him politically, most conclusively indicates.

Sergeant-at-Arms.

The office of Sergeant-at-Arms is one of the most important of legislative appointments, uniting as it does the executive authority of the General Court and superintendent of all its affairs in detail, purveyor of all supplies, and only responsible custodian of all its capital buildings and public properties pertaining thereto. The present incumbent has had but three predecessors since the appointment of Jacob Kuhn in 1787, with the official title of Messenger, serving two years short of his semi-centennial re-election. In 1835 he was succeeded by Benjamin Stevens of courtly memory, who first assumed the title of Sergeant-at-Arms, with a much wider range of authority and duties. With a service of twenty-four years, he was succeeded by Major John Morrissey of Plymouth, who carried the wand till 1875, or sixteen years. The accession of Capt. O. F. Mitchell completes the tripartite occupancy with the antecedent "Messenger." After a service of eleven years, and the completion of a century since its organization, Capt. Mitchell gives way to the present incumbent. Capt. John G. B. Adams, the present Sergeant-at-Arms, was born in Groveland, Mass., on the sixth day of October, 1841, and passed his boyhood and youth in that locality, until the early summer of 1861, when, inspired by that military spirit to which the stirring events of that time gave birth, he enlisted as a private soldier in Major Ben: Perley Poore's Rifle Battalion, which later became the nucleus of the Nineteenth Massachusetts Regiment. His kind, genial and lively disposition won for him the regard of his officers and comrades, with whom he was deservedly popular and a general favorite. He left the State on the 28th of August, 1861, as Sixth Corporal of Company A, of that regiment, and on March 1, 1862, was promoted to First Sergeant, after passing the best examination of non-commissioned officers. His many soldierly qualities soon brought him to the favorable notice of his commanding officers, and for gallantry in action he was twice recommended by them for promotion, and passed rapidly through the grades of Second and First Lieutenant to that of Captain, which rank he held at the close of the war. He participated in every march, shared every hardship, and was engaged in every battle of the Army of the Potomac in which his regiment took part. At Fredericksburg, Capt. Adams saved the colors of his regiment from capture, and bore them out of the battle in safety. He was twice severely wounded in the second day's fight at Gettysburg, and taken to the field hospital, where he was given over to die by the surgeon in charge. After a short leave of absence, and before he had recovered from his wounds, he rejoined his regiment to follow its fortunes in all the bloody battles from the Wilderness to the siege of Petersburg; and while in the advanced lines before that city, on the 22d of June, 1864, was captured with his regiment by the enemy. For nine months he was a prisoner of war, suffering the untold misery of an existence in the prison pens of Libby, Macon, Ga., Charleston and Columbia, S. C., and Raleigh, N. C.; at Charleston, he was one of six hundred who were kept under fire for three months. Twice he escaped from his captors, each time was recaptured, worked at same until of four weeks from his place of confinement, and was released in 1848. More Union lines. Soon after the war, Capt. Adams entered Document Service. Messrs. Benjamin F. Doak & Co., the large and well-known champion factors at Lynn, as foreman, where he remained for ten years, in failing health, caused by wounds received in battle, compelled him to resign his position. After closing his connection with the Messrs. Doak & Co., he accepted a position as Inspector in the Boston Custom House, which he filled for fifteen months, and which he resigned to accept the appointment of Postmaster at Lynn, which position he held for nearly eight years, discharging his many duties acceptably to his townspeople, to the department at Washington, and creditably to himself. In January, 1886, on the establishment of the reformatory prison at Concord, Captain Adams was appointed Deputy Warden, which position he held one year. When Post 5, G. A. R., was instituted, he was the first recruit mustered in, and has a continuous membership up to the present time. He was three times elected its Commander, was Department Commander of Massachusetts for one year; has twelve times been a delegate to the National Convention of the order, and has been President of the Association of Survivors of Rebel Prisons for the past seven years. In all these organizations, Capt. Adams has been a member of more than ordinary prominence. As President of the Board of Trustees of the Soldiers' Home he is rendering most efficient service, and under his leadership most excellent results have been shown. A staunch Republican, he has always had the courage of his own convictions, and voted, as he fought, in a straightforward, open manner; was chosen messenger to forward the electoral vote of the State to Washington on the first election of Grant in 1868. With the above remarkable record, the gallant soldier is deserving of the position awarded him. Uniting as it does, in an exceptional degree, the executive duties of legislative administration in all its varied details, with that of semi-host, responsible for the comfort and well-being of his multitudinous guests, he has the opportunity to make the position a most agreeable one by disciplined and economic supervision, which he will doubtless improve, to protect the interests of the Commonwealth, and secure the confidence and grateful regards of the strangers within his gates, by popular and cheerful service in their behalf and welfare.

Doorkeeper of Senate.

STILLMAN W. EDGELL, Doorkeeper of the Senate, was born in Westminister, Massachusetts, Aug. 27, 1831, and educated in the public schools of that town. Removed to Fitchburg in 1847, and for fifteen years was engaged in the chair business until the breaking out of the war, when he enlisted in the Massachusetts Fifteenth Regiment, Nov. 20, 1861, and was with the regiment in Gen. Devens' brigade, Sedgwick's division, with the fighting Tenth, another Western Massachusetts Regiment, through all the "On to Richmond" campaign of '62, in the Chickahominy, Seven Days Melee, Fair Oaks, and back to Malvern Hill. He also followed the fortunes of Grant in all the sanguinary conflicts of the Wilderness to Cold Harbor, where he lost his arm at the shoulder, on that memorable day of battle, June 3, 1864. Instead of honorable discharge and "going home" at expiration of service in six weeks, it was an arm and shoulder amputation, with all that that implies, and it was eight months' suffering at the

was appointed Messenger in the Senate in 1865,

I. HENRY RIDDELEN appointed Assistant Doorkeeper, serving nine years, was Doorkeeper in 1875, which position he still holds in local schools. 1 years' occupancy, and is the oldest member in consecutive service of the Legislative Messenger Corps.

Doorkeeper of House.

THOMAS J. TUCKER, who has been for twenty years and more on the Messenger service of the General Court, was born in Boston, of an old West End family, Dec. 21, 1831; graduating at an early age from the old Mayhew School; was engaged in business in Boston until ill health compelled him to change his employment, and was offered an appointment on the Messenger Corps of the Legislature under the administration of Major Benj. Stevens, Sergeant-at-Arms. In 1869, Major Morrissey appointed him Assistant Doorkeeper, which place he held eight years, when he was promoted by Capt. O. F. Mitchell, in 1875, Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives. Mr. Tucker has served under three of the four Sergeant-at-Arms who have held that office, and antedates in appointment any other member of the Messenger service of the Legislature. Mr. Tucker has given a lifetime of efficient service to the cause of temperance, having served in all of the active and honorary offices of the Massachusetts Division of the Sons of Temperance to the Grand Worthy Patriarch. Also member of the National Division, and Life Director of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence Society. Mr. Tucker is recognized by a host of friends in the House as a lifetime faithful, public official.

Veteran Messengers.

The exceptionally long and faithful service of two well-known habitués of the State House on the Sergeant-at-Arms corps makes it eminently fitting to place on record a brief notice. First of these, in seniority of service, is William S. Stoddard, Treasury Messenger, who was born in Boston, April 7, 1815, and bred a Boston boy at the public schools, learning and working at the carpenter's trade. In 1840 he was appointed Messenger by Benj. Stevens, the first Sergeant-at-Arms, and served in the care of the halls and cupola. Afterwards Legislative Messenger, and subsequently one of the four Chief Messengers, with special duty at the Treasury office. For forty-six years he has given that constant conscientious devotion to his important trusts that has secured the respect and warm regards of hosts of friends. Of the "millions" consigned to his trust for exchange and deposit through all these decades, not a dollar ever missed its way or clung to an itching palm.

Probably no man living in the Commonwealth is more familiarly and favorably known to the legislative alumni of the State than James N. Tolman, Messenger in charge of the Legislative Document Rooms, being born Feb. 9, 1815. For seventy-four years it has been his pride that he has hardly ever been out of Boston, and for forty years rarely absent from the State House during the daily and annual round of his measured duties, Sundays not even excepted. He fathomed the three "R's" at the old Franklin School, went to sea to serve his restless ambition, and work off the surplus vim of a tall, wiry, intensely active physique. Learned the carpenter's trade, and like his "twin" Messenger, worked at same until appointed to the Messenger corps at the State House in 1848. More than thirty years ago he was placed in charge of the Document Service. For a long time the foremost of the veteran fireman, then champion "runner" and no less famous swimmer, he was able to be instrumental in saving thirteen lives from a watery grave. We remember with what honest pride he brought up the first gold medal from the Humane Society, Thomas Rich, President, on the 24th of June, two years ago, on the fiftieth anniversary of its presentation. But for the un-American idea of a civil pension list, these two faithful public servants would have enjoyed the benefit of a special act in their behalf.

The well-known firm of Bent & Bush occupy the front rank in their lines of trade, with a well-earned reputation of half a century, manufacturing and selling their goods. In 1823, the factories were running in Lowell, and later on they occupied their consignee's agency on the old-time location, corner of Washington and Court, at the head of State Street. Following the drift of trade down Washington, near Summer, they still maintain the credit of the house for superior quality of Military Goods, Hat, Fur, and fine Furnishing Stocks.

THE STATE HOUSE.

The present State House was erected in 1795-97, upon land purchased of the heirs of John Hancock, by the town of Boston, for the sum of $4,000, and conveyed by said town to the Commonwealth, May 2, 1795. The Commissioners on the part of the town to convey the "Governor's Pasture," as it was styled, to the Commonwealth, were William Tudor, Charles Jarvis, John Coffin Jones, William Eustis, William Little, Thomas Dawes, Joseph Russell, Harrison Gray Otis, and Perez Morton. The agents for erecting the State House were named in the deed as follows: Thomas Dawes, Edward Hutchinson Robbins, and Charles Bulfinch.

The corner stone was laid July 4, 1795, by Governor Samuel Adams, assisted by Paul Revere, Master of the Grand Lodge of Masons. The stone was drawn to the spot by fifteen white horses, representing the number of States of the Union at that time. The building is 173 feet front; the height, including dome, is 110 feet; and the foundation is about that height above the waters of the bay. The dome is 53 feet in diameter, and 35 feet high.

Extensive improvements, including a "new part," extending backward upon Mount Vernon Street, were made, chiefly under the direction of a commission, in the years 1853, 1854, 1855, and 1856.

Under a resolve of 1866, a commission was appointed to inquire and report concerning the whole subject of remodeling or rebuilding the State House. They reported three propositions, without deciding in favor of either. The first was a plan of remodeling, at an expense of $375,430; the second a plan of remodeling, at an expense of $759,872; and the third a plan for a new building, at an expense of $2,042,574. The report of the commission was referred to the committee on the State House of the session of 1867, who recommended a plan of alterations at the estimated expense of $150,000; and by resolve No. 84 of that year the work was ordered to be executed under the supervision of a commission consisting of the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, who were authorized by the same resolve to expend $150,000, and by a subsequent resolve, $20,000 in addition. The President of the Senate died on the 29th of October, and thereafter the work was continued by the surviving commissioner.

The work was commenced on the second day of July, and was so nearly completed, so far as the conveniences for the legislative department were concerned, that both branches of the General Court met on the first day of January, and continued their sessions substantially without interruption. The improvements consist of an almost entire reconstruction of the interior of the building, except the "new part" before referred to as having been added from 1853 to 1856, whereby waste spaces are economized, the access to the several parts of the building simplified and made much more convenient, additional height and commodiousness given to a large part of the rooms, and a net gain of more than thirty rooms secured without extending the exterior walls of the building. Including the extension of the old, as well as the construction of the additional rooms, the contents of these apartments have been increased from about 103,000 to about 265,000 cubic feet,—a net gain of 162,000 cubic feet.

The exterior improvements consist principally in the removal of a large number of supernumerary chimneys, and other excrescences, which had marred and concealed the original well-approved architectural proportions of the State House. Two new galleries were added to the Representatives' Hall; and its finish, as also that of the Senate Chamber, was much improved, while their general outline was retained. The Council Chamber, with the exception of the ceiling, which was frescoed, remains with its ancient finish unchanged. The Governor's room was enlarged laterally, and additional height was also added by absorbing into it the old "green room," which was directly above. A new "green room," a spacious hall, elegantly finished, and well lighted and ventilated, fifty-six by thirty-seven feet has been constructed. The ceiling of the Doric Hall was raised two feet, and finished in panels; and its floor, and also those of the corridors on either side of it, were laid with marble tile. Improvements were made in the basement story, which entirely changed its character and utilized its waste places. Openings were made in both wings between the main building and the addition, by which spacious corridors were secured, leading directly from the Mount Vernon street entrance, which by branch corridors are connected with each other, and give easy access to every part of the basement. The floors of the corridors in this story are also laid with marble tile. The whole is heated by steam. Warm fresh hydrated air for ventilation is supplied to every room by a fan propelled by a steam engine; and the same engine runs an exhaust-fan for removing the foul air from the halls and some of the principal rooms. A steam pump forces water to the upper part of the building through large pipes, to which there is attached in the several stories more than a thousand feet of rubber hose, by which every room may be reached in case of fire. In addition to this precaution against fire, there is a steam pipe leading to the dome, by means of which a fire there may be almost instantly extinguished.

These improvements were executed from the plans of the architects, Washburn & Son, and under their direct and constant supervision. Cost, including furniture, about $250,000.

The legislature of 1868 made provision for reseating the Senate Chamber and the Hall of the House, which improvements were made under the supervision of legislative committees, in season for the accommodation of the legislature of 1869, at a cost of about $6,600.

By Resolve Chap. 68 of the year 1881, the sum of $45,000 was authorized to be expended for improving the basement of the State House, in accordance with plans submitted by the joint standing committee on the State House. The work was begun soon after the regular session of 1881, and was carried on under the supervision of the commissioners on the State House, consisting of Oreb F. Mitchell, Sergeant-at-Arms, Hon. Daniel A. Gleason, Treasurer and Receiver-General, and Hon. Henry B. Peirce, Secretary of State, assisted by John W. Leighton and Asa H. Caton, both of Boston, and appointed, under the resolve referred to, by the Governor and Council. Under the plans the floor of the basement was brought down to a common level, that of the old part in the front portion of the building being lowered about three feet. In excavating for this, the drainage was found to be in a very defective condition, the drains being broken and clogged so that the sewage could not run into the cess-pools, but spread under the floors, causing discomfort and actual danger to all who occupied the building. A complete change in the system of drainage was found to be necessary, and the old cesspools were given up, and a connection was made with the main city sewers in Beacon and Temple streets. The whole equipment of the building for drainage is now of the most thorough and approved character. By excavating under the front steps, a large space was gained, which has been utilized for a barber shop, a kitchen for the new restaurant, a new office for the commissioners of savings banks, and for sundry conveniences for the occupants of the State House. The room just behind this space, and formerly occupied by dark closets, passage ways, and the air ducts of the system of ventilation, has been finished into a commodious and well-lighted restaurant, large enough to seat sixty persons at table, and conveniently fitted up for the purpose, giving a much needed accommodation. The space occupied by the old kitchen and lunch room, and for other purposes, on the easterly end, together with the Surgeon-General's old quarters, has been formed into a commodious suite of rooms for the Deputy Tax Commissioner and his assistants. The rooms formerly occupied by this department, on the floor above, reverted to the Department of the Secretary of State, to which they formerly belonged, and by which they were again much needed. The space in the southwest corner of the basement, formerly occupied by the Adjutant-General's department for a fire-proof, was remodeled and fitted into offices for the department of Public Charities, and the rooms vacated by this department are used for legislative committee rooms for which there was pressing need. The room formerly occupied as the private office of the Secretary of the Board of Agriculture, and that used for passage ways near by, was made into a fire-proof for the Adjutant-General's department; and the Secretary of the Board of Agriculture has been assigned a room on the floor above, the large room formerly occupied by his department being utilized for additional committee rooms and offices.

Three large new boilers were put in, adding greatly to the heating capacity, which increase was imperatively needed, and a complete arrangement for draught and ventilating ducts was secured by the building of a large new chimney. A place was also secured for storing five hundred tons of coal, by excavation in the court at the westerly end. New entrances were added to the basement, one from Hancock avenue on the west, and one from Mount Vernon street on the east.

These improvements and repairs add greatly not only to the capacity and convenience of the building, but also remedy defects that were alike destructive to comfort and dangerous to life and health. The sum appropriated was somewhat exceeded in doing the work, an excess made necessary by the unforeseen condition of the drainage, without the remodeling of which the work could not proceed; and also by the insecure foundations in the front part of the basement, which, until the excavations had proceeded to a considerable extent, seemed to be solid masonry, but which proved to be only an insufficient wall, wholly unfit for use with the enlargement contemplated.

Under authority of Chapter 70 of the Resolves of 1885, passenger elevators were erected in the east and west wings of the State House.

volumes, and is strictly a reference library. The Librarian and assistants will be at the service of those in search of information, and should be fully consulted.

THE BATTLE-FLAGS.

The colors of the several regiments and batteries of Massachusetts which had served the country during the war of the Rebellion were returned to the State House on the 22d of December, 1865. A full account of the interesting ceremonies of the occasion may be found in the Adjutant-General's Report for the year 1865. The colors were grouped around the pillars in the Doric Hall, where they remained until, by authority of Resolve No. 38 of 1866, they were placed in the niches on the north side of the hall, and in the sides of the recess occupied by the Washington statue, according to a plan of A. R. Esty, Esq., architect, in whose charge the matter was placed by the Governor and Council. The flags are 269 in number, —194 being of infantry regiments, and 75 of cavalry and artillery. The cavalry flags are placed in the northwest angle niche of the hall; the infantry flags in the Washington statue recess; and the artillery and battery flags, in the northeastern niche. In the statue recess the national colors are located in regular numerical order upon the lowest shelf on either side of the statue, commencing No. 1 next to cavalry flags, with the State and other colors in the background. The flags are enclosed within mammoth panes of glass, and the openings are properly guarded by fencing.

THE STATUE OF WASHINGTON,

By Chantrey, was placed in the State House in 1828 by the Washington Monument Association, at a cost of $15,000.

In the pavement of the area, near the statue, are fac similes of certain memorial stones from the parish church at Brighton, near Althorp, Northamptonshire, England. They were presented by the Right Hon. Earl Spencer to the Hon. Charles Sumner, and by him to the Commonwealth, Feb. 22, 1861.
